LINDSAY'S LINES

What a great meeting last week was with Dr Rod Thelander from Perth talking to us about Australian Doctors in Africa. The real surprise was the presence of ROMAC patient, Roselyn accompanied by Dr Gaye Ardanes, both from Philippines. As mentioned last week, this is Roselyn's third visit (and Gaye's 5th) and it was so good to see her looking so well, especially less than 48 hours after her surgery.

Whilst there are many community projects our Rotarians around the world support, I was reminded recently that the generosity of spirit and fellowship of Rotary often extends to helping those within our own ranks and this regularly occurs on the quiet. It can be as simple as a professional advice and/or references. Of course there is the great well being that fellowship brings with the coffees, lunches, dinners and drinks and, for some, holidaying together. The quick phone call to see how a sick or bereaved member is or say a simple birthday wish is also always welcome. But it is when a member and/or their family hit times of trouble that the true spirit surfaces. Like the mud army during the recent Brisbane floods, the readiness to offer assistance without desire for personal recognition is a marvellous human trait common with Rotarians and why so many of us are attracted to such a like-minded group. All I can say is - keep up the good work!

Finally, a reminder to get in the Rotary fellowship spirit this Thursday and wear your best race gear for our club's infamous Melbourne Cup Phantom Race call. See you all for breakfast on Thursday.

WANTED!

Volunteers aged 65+
for a research study

We are looking for healthy RIGHT HANDED individuals aged 65 and over to explore how emotions are processed in the brain.

Our study involves watching some pictures in the MRI scanner as well as playing some games.

This study consists of two sessions, 4 hours in total. One session will be in a MRI center and one at the school of Psychology. Both sessions are at The University of Queensland, St Lucia.

You will receive a $60 as a thank you for your time and effort and YOU GET TO KEEP A PICTURE OF YOUR BRAIN. It's easy, fun and is an invaluable contribution to the research being conducted on aging by researchers at The University of Queensland.

Call UQ Researcher (Maryam) on 0422 916 362 or email (Maryam) Maryamziae@gmail.com
