ANGELA'S ANGLE

It was great to officially welcome Angela Gill into Rotary and have her join the Services Committee. She has already been involved in a number of projects and I know she will be a great addition to our Club. I apologise for being so rushed but I had a lot on last Thursday morning and did not want to miss Angela's induction. It is so great having another Angela in the Club. Whenever I forget things I can always say "I thought you meant the other Angela was doing that".

I can't believe how fast Christmas is looming up. There are only four Rotary meetings left for this year and one of those will be the AGM on 20 December. For those that plan their holidays around Rotary meetings (I am sure most of you do!!!) we have decided that there will be no Rotary meeting on 27 December and 3 January. Our first meeting for 2013 will occur on 10 January and as usual will be at the Planetarium Club. Don't forget our Christmas meeting on 13 December when children will be very welcome. We know from talking to our own members that many joined Rotary as their parents / grandparents were involved. This is a great fun way to introduce Rotary to the next generation. We will be announcing more about this fun morning in the lead up.

In the meantime work hard and try to meet all those impossible deadlines before the holiday season or least get plans in place to achieve them. I just realised, if I lose 3 kgs every week before Christmas I can still achieve my 2012 New Year's resolution, but then again if the world ends on 21 December (as some are predicting) I will have missed out on three weeks of party food (why is all party food deep fried or wrapped in pastry) !!! Perhaps I just take the middle road and maintain my weight, enjoy the party food in moderation and start again in 2013 when I will only have to lose 230 grams a week, which is much more manageable. I can now enjoy Christmas knowing that I have a plan in place!!!
