ANGELA'S ANGLE

I have survived another Zanthia birthday celebration. I am pleased to announce we managed to get through the weekend without the need of a doctor, ambulance, grief counsellor (to deal with the many dramas that occur) or psychologist (to alleviate the scars the previous stated dramas created).

My criteria for a successful party is pretty simple - that we get through the 26 hours (but who was counting!!!!) without needing to ring any parent to advise what hospital their child is being sent to and everyone is still friends at the end of the party. Note to self - expecting 11 year old girls to stay friends for more than a few hours at a time is totally unrealistic.

Considering there were 12 girls and we were horse riding for over an hour and just installed a new slide into the swimming pool it was a miracle that no phone calls were made. Everyone was well behaved, followed instructions and we went 26 hours (but who was counting!!!!) without one tear being shed. This may make us eligible for a world record. Then again who else would ever try to beat the record of being with 12 x 11 year olds for 26 hours (but who was counting!!!!). Chances are they would not be as lucky as we were and have a delightful group of young woman who helped to set and clear tables and looked after one another. Despite every towel (beach and bathroom) and sheet in our house being used the Tillmanns voted it the best Zanthia birthday party ever. I have it on good authority it is only 360 days to the next Zanthia birthday celebration (but whose counting!!!)
